

ABOUT THE EDITORS

Rodney M. Barker is a principal of Barker, Epstein & Loscocco in Boston. He obtained an M.A. in history and law from Cambridge University and an M.A.T. from Oberlin. He was admitted as a solicitor of the Supreme Court in England in 1959 and as a member of the Massachusetts Bar in 1977. Mr. Barker served as chair of the New England Chapter of American Immigration Lawyers Association (AILA) 1992–93, and has been an adjunct professor at Suffolk University Law School in Boston teaching immigration law. He has written numerous articles on religious visas for AILA publications and also has lectured on aspects of religious visas at AILA conferences. Mr. Barker has held elected political office in Newton, MA, and is active in many community organizations. He was the president of the Tibetan Community Assistance Project/Boston, Inc. and is presently the president of the Newton/San-Juan del Sur Sister City Project, Inc.

Rosanne T. Milano is an associate attorney at Barker, Epstein & Loscocco in Boston. She received her J.D. in 2007 from Suffolk University Law School and her B.A. in International Relations from Boston University. She is admitted to the Massachusetts Bar and the First Circuit Court of Appeals.