

Glimmer Train's April 2009
Family Matters

1st-place: Randolph Thomas for "According to Foxfire"

2nd-place: Amy S. Gottfried for "Falling, Landing"

3rd-place: Abe Gaustad for "A Month of Rain"

Top 25, listed in alphabetical order:

Kelsey Allagood for "On the Seventh Day"

Richard Birch for "Stop Motion"

Melanie Bishop for "Home for Wayward Girls"

Alan Carl for "Calacas"

David Cates for "The Purpose of a Mummy in Modern Society"

Deborah Clearman for "Bomb Test"

Kirk Curnutt for "45 and 114"

Nimbilasha Cushing for "A Lost Season"

Anastasia Faunce for "Missions, 1969"

Laurie Frankel for "The Yangtze"

Abby Horowitz for "A Man Without a Family"

Sandra Jensen for "The Psychology of Crime"

Geoff Kronik for "Breakfast in the New World"

Jennifer Lee for "Duplex"

Rossina Zamora Liu for "Good People"

Jane Martin for "The Backwoods"

John Picard for "Gloria"

Matthew Riordan for "Two Ham Theory"

Doug Silver for "If Every Day was Oklahoma City"

Kurt Steinwand for "Raccoons"

Laura Tan for "Bitter Melon"

Chris Zappone for "Not for All the Mayo in Western Pennsylvania"

Congratulations, and thank you for letting us read your stories!

Susan! Lind