

Glimmer Train's November 2011
Short Story Award for New Writers

1st-place: David Goguen for "Old Teeth"

2nd-place: Allison Frase Reavis for "Episodic Tremors"

3rd-place: James Wheeler for "The International Typographers Union"

Top 25, listed in alphabetical order:

Joseph Ballou for "The Lies Surrounding the Goat"
Stephanie Brown for "Bony Landmarks"
Jody Callahan for "She Gave Me Back the City"
Karim Dimechkie for "Misunderstanding"
Robyn Gertner for "Cracked"
Amanda Hartzell for "What the Water Is"
Tagrid Hassabo for "Icebreakers"
Sativa January for "What Margaret Left"
Leah Kaminsky for "To the Bright Blue Skies and Away"
Kobus Moolman for "Extracts from a Dispensable Life"
Genevieve Plunkett for "The Rodeo"
Kelly Rebar for "A Half Cord Split and Stacked"
Matthew Rossi for "The Bee, Ha-Shem"
Amy Schleunes for "Gladys in Pieces"
Adam P. Sexton for "What the Boys Will Eat"
Melissa Stacy for "The Drop Stop"
Jennifer Thompson for "Friendship Manor"
Cyn Vargas for "Stillness"
Siamak Vossoughi for "The Beauty School"
Kristin Walrod for "Downtown Crowd"
Marguerite Weisman for "Right Knife"
Paula Yoo for "Counting"

Congratulations, and thank you for letting us read your stories!

Susan Lind