Bloodgood/Detonation (Frontline)

With the mainstream success of Stryper, other Christian metal bands are finding themselves on the receiving end of a lot of media attention. The Seattle-based Bloodgood is easily among the best, with a loosely defined sound that ranges from speed to pop metal. The lyrical content of this, their second album, might turn off some people, but as with a lot of good metal, the words are, for the most part, indecipherable.
