Brampton, Ontario (PRWeb) December 6, 2007 -- Showcase is bringing vibration therapy directly to the consumer so they can enjoy the great benefits that this revolutionary exercise in the comfort of their own home with the Quantum Body Fit.

Vibration therapy is fast becoming one of the most popular forms of weight loss exercise today. More and more people are learning and understanding the value and benefits of vibration therapy and are actively seeking out places and ways to incorporate vibration workouts into their exercise regiments.

In fact, Muscle & Fitness Magazine declared that vibration therapy is "on its way to becoming one of the fastest growing fitness trends since spinning and is easily the most important multi-purpose device in the fitness, health and wellness industries."

"Every once in a while, we discover items that are truly life-changing. The Quantum Body Fit is one of those exercise machines that change and improve the way people look and feel about themselves. People are enjoying the benefits that vibration therapy has to offer. And when a well-respected publication like Muscle & Fitness endorses vibration therapy, we knew that we had to feature the Quantum Body Fit in our stores and on www.ShopAtShowcase.com" says Amin Jivraj, founder of Showcase.

Product testing for the Quantum Body Fit took place at the Showcase Institute, where it underwent extensive quality, functional and operational examination. During this process, the Quantum Body Fit passed each test with flying colors.

While most fitness machines create resistance, the Quantum Body Fit is the exact opposite. Instead of working against the body, it works and moves with the body so the user is exercising in a fluid, natural motion. Because of this, the entire body, from arms and legs to the back and abs gets a total workout that challenges and stimulates all the muscle groups in the body.

The Quantum Body Fit has a variety of features that make it an ideal home exercise machine:

- Easy to read display console with LED screen
- 5 speed settings
- Convenient exercise book resting platform
- Pre-programmed workout settings

While other home vibration therapy machines cost in excess of $1000 to $8000, the Quantum Body Fit is available from Showcase for only $199.99 in the United States, allowing customers to get the unique benefits of vibration therapy in an affordable and convenient machine.

"Revolutionary workout machines shouldn't be the exclusive domain of the gym. People interested in experiencing a unique workout experience that delivers results should be able to do that in the comfort of their own home. The Quantum Body Fit does just that," adds Jivraj.
