She has never gotten over being cheated out of going to her high school prom by a vicious prankster, Long Duck Dong Pontana. Today, she is obsessed with wearing the pink prom dress that she made and never got the chance to wear. Some people say this trauma caused her to be a social outcast since high school. Rumor has it that she once made her roadies sort out hundreds of green M&amp;M's for her dressing room with no intentions of eating them. Because of her fame and success, she gets whatever she wants from her troupe. Cat Fenafar often forgets that she came from a poverty-stricken childhood and is the ultimate snoot to everyone around her. Except Melinda Parnile, of course, who is a dear friend to her.	'80s rock band attire. '80s punkish hairstyle. Guitar as an optional prop.

He married Polly Pingmold two years ago after she settled on a ten-year mental anguish law suit against Long Duck Dong Pontana, the boy who purposely stood her up as a mean prank for her senior prom. Ivan used Polly's law suit settlement to start up his ghost catching business on the side and quickly catapulted himself to international fame...and often ridicule. He has a huge flatulence problem and often blames the stench he makes on the ghosts around him.	Either a 'ghost catcher' outfit or a '80s style suit. A fart sound machine or fart spray (this can be found at most novelty stores) is an optional and quite funny prop.
